Cannon to host Air Show, Space and Tech Fest

CANNON AIR FORCE BASE, N.M. – The 27th Special Operations Wing will open its gates to the general public for the free Air Commandos on the High Plains Air Show, Space and Tech Fest at Cannon Air Force Base on May 26-27, 2018, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

This is an opportunity to celebrate the long-standing partnership between Cannon Air Force Base and the High Plains community, and the unique capabilities and qualities of Cannon's Air Commandos.

"We anticipate having aircraft from several past generations as well as some of the latest innovations in technology," said Lt. Col. Chris Hodgin, director of the 2018 Cannon AFB Air Show, Space and Tech Fest. "We want to build an event that showcases not only the exceptional air assets employed at Cannon (AC-130W, MC-130J, CV-22, MQ-9), but the space and ground technologies that Air Commandos use every day. This is going to be more than just an Air Show!"

In addition to the aircraft stationed at Cannon, the USAF Thunderbirds and Canadian Royal Air Force F-18 Demo team will be performing and numerous other military and civilian aircraft will be on static display. More information on events will be provided as they become available. Please contact the 27th Special Operations Wing Public Affairs Office at 575-784-4131 or 27sowpa.publicaffairs@us.af.mil for additional questions.
